“ As a co-worker at NAVSEA for many years, I was often amazed when Alan modestly demonstrated one of his many talents. I once noticed him scribbling something in a notebook, only took a few seconds, somehow a bit later I peeked over and saw a masterful depiction of the entire first row of attendees in the meeting room, every one individually recognizable. I know Alan had previously worked for the New York Port Authority, but didn't talk about it much. Alan was one of the brightest people I ever knew, IQ-wise. Alan was very funny to listen to, he could have been a successful standup comedian. RIP Alan! JLM

“ I feel privileged to have known Alan for at least 20 years, and his wife, Francie Fox Schweber, for even longer. Alan was a cheerful, gregarious individual, with a great sense of humor. He had an opinion on everything, which he was always happy to share. He adored Francie and cared deeply about their many friends. He was also heavily devoted to Judaism. Although he had been quite ill for some time, and I knew this day would come, I am still heartbroken. May Alan's memory forever be a blessing, and may Francie know only happiness in the future.
