“ Like some others, I only knew Angela through her writing. I am saddened to hear of her passing: she was a kind, generous and often hilarious person in the place where I knew her. Wishing those who loved her peace and comfort; may her memory be a blessing.

“ Russ, Julie, and Katherine, I am so very sorry for your loss. As a friend from Angela's Exponent days, I had enjoyed reconnecting with her in recent years via social media. Notably, we had convened via Skype last fall for a "Long Distance Book Club" discussion, and Angela did a masterful job of gently steering our conversation with tremendous kindness and good humor. She is gone far too soon and too suddenly, and I hope you will find a measure of comfort in your fond memories of her generous spirit.

“ Sending my deepest sympathy to Angela's family. We were in high school together and she was either smiling or about to smile all the time. What a sweet and gentle soul! I am blessed to have known her and I wish you all joy in your fondest memories of dear Angela. I am so sorry I cannot be there on Feb 3 but please know I will be with you in spirit.

Do Not Stand at My Grave and Weep

*I give you this one thought to keep -
I am with you still - I do not sleep.*

*I am a thousand winds that blow,
I am the diamond glints on snow,
I am the sunlight on ripened grain,
I am the gentle autumn rain.*

*When you awaken in the morning's hush,
I am the swift, uplifting rush of quiet birds in circled flight.
I am the soft stars that shine at night.*

*Do not think of me as gone -
I am with you still - in each new dawn.*

“ I'm certain I speak for all of Angela's Blackboard family when I say we are deeply saddened by her untimely passing. Angela may have been petite in stature, but she had a big influence on many of us. Somehow, she managed to have her entire cohort at Bb competing for her affection. She used to tell each of us that we were "her favorite." And you know what? I really wanted to be her favorite. And that is because she was a truly sincere, funny, kind hearted and deeply intelligent woman, and who doesn't want the respect and affection of someone like that? Once you got past her quiet and serious exterior, she was a treasure chest of delightful qualities. She and I would plan office Halloween decorating months in advance. She was creative and artistic and had a great sense of whimsy and fun. Despite her quiet external demeanor, I fondly recall belly laughing with her at the antics of some of our colleagues. She was so helpful, so kind and so patient. Angela- To use one of your words, you were a really swell friend. I'm sad that you are gone. Thank you for making our little world a better place for your presence in it. I'll be on your Pinterest Page this weekend looking at your Valentine's ideas. My love, sympathy and condolences to your family - Tess Frazier

“ The death of someone young especially hurts for the tragedy of a lifespan not fully lived. King Hezekiah expressed this at Isaiah 38:10: “In the prime of my life must I go through the gates of death and be robbed of the rest of my years?”

Yet, we are not left without hope, for God promises to do away with sickness and death and the distress they cause—permanently! Rev. 21:4 says “There will be no more death or mourning or crying or pain.” We know this will happen because God gave Jesus the authority to heal the sick and power to raise the dead. The healing and resurrections performed by Jesus demonstrate this reality. (Luke 5:12, 13; John 11:39-44).

The Bible’s promise of a resurrection does not eliminate the pain of losing a loved one. But imagine the prospect of being reunited with Angela. Let the thought of being able to embrace her again make your pain easier to bear. An encouraging video “Is there Hope for the Dead?” can be found at jw.org. My sincere condolences are with you.
