“ About a hundred years ago -- actually, more like fifty -- when Bruce and I were young bucks, we served together on the U. S. Tariff Commission. He, the veteran of a couple of years or so, guided me the neophyte. We did not always vote the same way on the trade cases before us, but I certainly respected his intelligence and analysis with respect to the matters before us. We became good friends. This world will miss and should honor Bruce Clubb, a gentleman of honor!

“ Bruce always had a sparkle in his eye, a keen sense of humor, was a brilliant and charming man, and he especially loved to play tennis. Bruce never said a bad word about any tennis player and was always gentle and kind He believed that everyone on this planet was important and especially the ANCC 'tennis gang'. Bruce always made a tennis party extra special. When he walked in the room everyone surrounded him and listened to his words of wisdom on the latest stock tip, politics, or other worldly topic. He could talk on any subject and was a great conversationalist. Bruce will be missed, and his presence and his memory will be on the courts and always in the hearts of his special ANCC 'Tennis Gang'. Cheers to Bruce from Ginger--ANCC Tennis Gang friend.

“ Bruce and I met a year ago when he worked with me to schedule a Cosmos Club get-together in South Florida. From our very first email we became fast-friends and I enjoyed his company several times over the last year. Lunch at the Lago Mar was always filled with good conversation, and I just loved his sense of humor. Conversations often turned to his children and grandchildren. He was so proud of them. We were to get together just four weeks from today, shortly after my return to Florida. But it won't happen. I can't believe he is gone. A man with such presence, caring, gentleness and so much more to give. Yes, I knew him for a short time, but I will not forget him. Most of all, I have lost a new and dear friend. Someone who can't be replaced. My thoughts are with his family and friends.

“ I will always remember Bruce's humor and kindness. He and Martha were so very proud of their two sons. They were gracious hosts in their home and made others feel warmly welcomed! God bless his dear family.

“ I had the opportunity to interview and film Bruce for the Cosmos Club a process that took some time. In doing so he discussed his life, family, career and his time in various official positions in the Club including the Presidency. He was an interesting man, easy to work with and we shared some laughs during the process. My condolences to the family for their loss.
