“ I can not remember ever speaking to someone about my grandfather without beginning the conversation out by saying the truthful words, "He is my hero." His death is an end for a lot of things to me and I will always remember just how wonderful of a man and grandfather he was and still is in my heart. Life itself is so fragile and bitter sweet. However, when a wonderful man like my grandfather goes with the Lord, even tho anticipation has smoothed the blow, it still aches and you can't help but shed tears just knowing that it stops right now. I love you Grandfather and I know you are in a wonderful, peaceful place with Grandmother and Uncle Mike.

“ I have so many fond memories of 'Uncle John' from his stories of Alaska to his 'war games' days in Anson County. Like my sister Alice he seemed to have a gruff or at least curmudgeonlike exterior but it could never hide for long what a great gregarious guy he was.

“ I will always remember my Aug. 09 visit to Uncle Jon with my sister, Mary Trexler. That last visit was a great day for him and for us. Some may have seen a gruff exterior, but he had a heart of gold. He made my siblings and me feel special through all these years. Oh, those secret handshakes when he would slip his young nieces and nephews some cash, out of sight of our parents. I do that for my own kids even today, and my husband never sees it. His devotion to Aunt Margaret was inspirational. A loving good-bye to you Uncle Jon!
