“ Hello. I became a friend of Mr. Steve later in life. I did not know him in his vigorous youth. What I remember are the times I was privileged to sit and talk with Mr. Steve. To eat breakfast and help him with the daily crossword puzzle, watching Jeopardy with him and the time the electricity went out and we made it a point to eat the ice cream before it melted. I wanted so much to be there for him, to help him but many of the times it turned out to be him helping me. I will remember him fondly because he was always gentle, kind and funny. Though not a family member, I had much love and respect for Mr. Steve

“ I always admired my Uncle Steve and enjoyed my visits to Virginia to visit him. Growing up, he was seen as an example of success in our house and I chose a career in government because of him. God bless you Uncle Steve.
