“ There is something about WWII Veterans...their drive, optimism, persistence, inspiration to keep going, and (above all) their Patriotism. And Harry Warden Foley was no exception. He continued to serve his community, state, and nation, for three-quarters of a century after his military service in the Pacific.

Warden Foley was also the epitome of a Legionnaire, and the very essence of The American Legion. In fact, one could say he was a Legionnaire's Legionnaire. He never hesitated to provide guidance and advice about the mechanisms of The American Legion (from the National-Level down to the Post-level). Warden encouraged me to run for Post Commander and gave me valuable advice. He told me that whenever I have a difficult decision to make -- to always do what was in the best interest of the Post and The American Legion. His anecdotes about his earlier years in Post 24 were always informative and interesting. His decades-old stories are part of Post 24 lore. I am waiting for the movie version to come out (just kidding).

Warden is already greatly missed. He can never be replaced as there was only one Warden Foley. God Bless American Patriots like Warden, and God Bless the United States of America.

“ What a sad day for America! Warden Foley was a true patriot, from his military service to his service to the community and Veterans Service Organizations, Warden always gave of himself. He was a mentor to so many and assisted organizations without the need for praise. I can only imagine how the family will miss him as I know I surely will. Prayers of Peace and Comfort in this difficult time. Rest assured that Warden's life was dedicated to his family, community, and country. Rest in Peace. Gone but never forgotten.
