“ It's hard to process such a sudden and unexpected loss. It still hasn't sunk in. Only over time...when he's not there to greet us at the door, passing out presents as Santa, helping when needed as only a friend can, being there with at holidays, special occasions, good times and bad....always.

One of these days...one of these times, the enormity of this loss is going to sink in and our true feelings will be felt. Until then, the numbness of knowing that something, someone special in our lives is missing never to be found again, is what we carry.

Fond memories will come later. Until then, we carry on as best of friends to Michele and Georgia, to stay close, to laugh, to live closely by, to be with and support each otheras our buddy, our friend, our Santa, Vince would have us do.

“ We loved Vince and Michelle after meeting them over 20 years ago. They became good neighbors and friends. We are so sad about the passing of Vince, and hope he is resting in peace with loved ones in the beyond. Praying for strength to the families in going forward, with lots of good memories to share.

“ Vince lived a couple of blocks from me. We were sworn into the Navy the same time, stationed in Iceland, then onboard the USS Plymouth Rock.. Then I'm pretty sure we were stationed at the Village Inn at Duke and Pickett. Lol. Great guy, will surely be missed..
