

Joshua James Tracy

March 23, 1982 - May 6, 2013

Joshua James Tracy of Alexandria, VA and formerly of Bath, NY left us down on Earth to hang out in the penthouse with Breezy, Dave Bowen, and Dustin Partridge for awhile to help them watch out for all of us bouncing souls on May 6, 2013.

He was born March 23, 1982 to Momma, whom he called every year on Mother's and Father's Day, because in his eyes, she was both parents wrapped in one.

He leaves behind his beautiful, firecracker of a daughter, Skylar Anne Tracy, age 3; Skylar's mother, Heather Hartwell, long time companion and Voice of Reason; two blood brothers, Phunkle Phil and Lloyd, both younger yet somehow both much taller than he; DRock, his older brother through life, also taller and the one that brought him to us in VA; his Aunt Alaina, with whom he had many a laughing late night phone call with. He is also survived by a long list of aunts, uncles, nieces, nephews and even grandparents.

His many, many friends in VA will miss him dearly. These include his soulmate, Blair Hendrix; his half-Asian twin, JC Sizzle; his Lil Sis, Carla Baby; Crystal, his Extra Mommy; his Squish, Sarah O.

Josh loved people. His path in life as a bartender let him do what he liked best: meeting people, charming the pants off them, and helping them have a good time. Josh was definitely a lover, not a fighter. He was always ready to help someone out, and always good to have around if you needed to laugh or just to feel better. He loved to make people smile.

Josh was a loving and caring father to Skylar. He lives on every second of everyday in the beautiful daughter that we are so lucky to have with us. Her brilliance, her charm, her independence, and those blue eyes that are identical to his, our Squiggle is a living embodiment of Josh.

“ *Josh(slosh) was a wonderful son and knew how to make people laugh at an early age. He was very intelligent and earned his way through school to graduate all on his own. I know I wasn't listed in his obituary but that's ok I was and still consider myself his dad. I adopted josh when he was 3 and raised him as my own until he chose to move out at 14. I respect him for everything he accomplished in life because he did it all on his own. I love and miss you Josh and will always cherish the memories of you growing up.
