“ I'm not sure why it has taken so long for me to write, maybe because it hurts too much. I miss the way it use to be when we had our "cousin" lunches and our teasing, joking and laughing that nobody but our cousins understood. I miss the holidays when we all got together with our families and visited each other. Those were special times. That "cousin's" chair is empty now, Laura, but you will always be in our hearts. Finally you can rest in the peace you so deserve. Until we can laugh together again...

“ Laura, I know you are in a better place than the rest of us, but that doesn't make it any easier. These holidays seem to get worse each year because it seems I lose somebody I love at this time of year. I love you and miss you and hope that you will always be around me. Tell mom, dad, Charles and Grafton that I need them around me too. Things are really rough for me and I need my angels. Love you
