“ My beloved godmother and aunt, my father's dearest sister and much loved sister in law to my mother Pat, Marie Prince Lins was a constant presence in my life from the day I was born. On that day my father telephoned and asked her to be godmother, little imagining what a wonderfully faithful, committed and loving godmother and aunt she would be. Her generosity to my sister Elizabeth as her eldest niece, to my brother Michael, who was the same age as Johanna, and to me was truly exceptional. Auntie Marie brought excitement, a wide view of the world, and humour to all her dealings with the English 'Tony Princes'. She offered the model of a 'strong woman', the first of a generation that made young women think it was not just possible but normal to have a career and to see marriage as an option, not an obligation: her famous advice was 'wait until you are 40, then think about it....'. Above all other things, I will also remember her absolute devotion to the Catholic faith. Auntie Marie was a remarkable woman who had enormous impact on others through her exceptional and penetrating intelligence and her influence has been with me for 62 years and will be treasured until the end of my own life. May she rest in peace alongside Uncle Bill, and be reunited with her brother John, Pat, Tony and her own parents, Norah and Tom.
