“ Just a couple months ago, I found myself thinking of Mr. Katz when friends drove up to my house in a '67 convertible Mustang that I'd never seen them drive. It immediately took me back to playing with Rachel in their front yard with his classic green (as I recall) Mustang in the driveway. I don't think I ever rode in it, having for some reason missed the opportunity to ride with Rachel in the back during a parade. I have many memories of the kindness and generosity of Mr. and Mrs. Katz during the many years Rachel and I played together. I recall exploring Alexandria while visiting his boat, playing pinball, and roller skating to the Beach Boys in the basement (what a record collection down there)! These, of course, were things Rachel and I did - I never saw Mr. Katz in roller skates. However, in retrospect I'm sure pinball and the Beach Boys were his influence. He will be missed. - Becca Hale

“ It is with a heavy heart..."Shalom, small boat sailor." Marshall was truly one of the good guys--he brightened the lives of others. Kindhearted, talented, generous, and funny, Marshall was a true mensch, devoted to his family and friends.

I'll always remember how my cousin Laura and Marshall embraced my daughter Lisa during a semester in D.C. And I'll never forget the moonlit sail on the Potomac with Marshall and Laura in a boat he might have (or definitely could have) built--it was incredible to see the city aglow and be in such good company! It was also a great pleasure to celebrate him on his 80th birthday. Laura brought together family and friends, many of whom happily traveled from afar, to partake in the special event.

I know Marshall will be missed and remembered by us and all who knew him...his memory will be a blessing...always.

“ Marshall was my neighbor, friend and hero. He successfully battled heart disease for many years leading an exemplary and healthy lifestyle. He was the first Heywood Glen neighbor I met and the first face I saw when I woke up from own cardiac surgery. He and Laura graced my table for many joyous holiday occasions. It was a pleasure greeting them when he and Laura would take their daily walks through the neighborhood. In his modesty, Marshall considered himself a small boat sailor, but he was an Admiral because of his great compassion and love for his family, friends, and neighbors. May his memory be a blessing for us all. Arlene Battis
