“ Paula and I first met Phoebe and Dom when we moved in next door in 1989. They were both very gracious and particularly pleased to have a young family in the neighborhood since our daughter Emma was only 3 years old. We would visit with Phoebe often on her front porch and she would always take time to talk with Emma or ask about her once she left home for college. That was Phoebe – always asking about everyone and concerned about their welfare. After Dom passed away, it was our privilege to support Phoebe when she needed assistance or advice and make sure she felt safe and secure in her home. We also marveled at Phoebe’s continued dedication to exercise and good health at the Lee District Recreation Center well into her 80’s. As Paula would tell others, “Phoebe was my role model”. We were glad to have had Phoebe in our lives.
