“ The Corgan family lived several houses down Vantage Drive from our house. It was the late 1970s and we, and our children, were young.

We became friends with the Corgan family once the neighborhood settled. The Corgan household was a happy, bubbling home. Bob and I used to chat mostly on weekends when he was not working his challenging hours at the Watergate. His stories about the Amazon river, being a brother, meeting Lilly and Peru as well as other stories formed National Geographic like images in my mind. Bob had great stories.

When Lilly and I visited at her home, and Bob was off work, he could usually be found doing something in the garage. His technical skills rocked. He seemed to be able to fix and/or build anything. Lilly would happily point out Bob's flawless home improvements. Such talent.

Bob's salient traits were his ever present smile, his joyous spirit, his warm personality, sensational energy, graciousness and sharp mind. When speaking, Bob's eyes lit up and of course the smile emerged. His energy was absolutely contagious.

Lilly and Bob raised great kids together and time passed quickly. They moved to a new neighborhood and time moved even faster for all of us.

The sky has a wonderful, very bright star now. Margaret Kline 2 July 2023
