“ I woke up this morning thinking of Robin so much and realized today would have been his birthday. I miss him dearly, and am so glad to have memories with him to look back on. I'll never forget sneaking away to Port Aransas with him. Robin was truly one of the most positive people in my life, and I'll always love him and miss him.

“ Robin has always been close to me even though he lives far away. He's no further than he's ever been. I know he knows this. He is still very important to me. Hopefully we will get to know one another more, in the future. I love you Robin.

“ If Robin hadn't talked to me one day to tell me we were neighbors, I would've probably never met him. Robin was like my favorite kind of person. Honest, friendly, nice, and always had something witty to say. We argued from who's house is closest to the pool, to who had the worse taste in music. But he also had so much patience like for example explaining to me how he built computers and why he thought BMW's were the best. I honestly was and still am an air head when it comes to those subjects. Robin was the nicest person I met the two years I lived in Alamo Heights. I'll miss him dearly. He will now and always be in my prayers.

“ I just got informed of this horrible news. My condolences to his family. This is very shocking, i remember taking an immediate liking to Robin, first because he was the only student who would come for tutoring during lunch time, he was the sweetest boy i had ever taught too. Second, Robin shares a birthday with my baby boy so i connected with him before anyone else. Robin was a dreamer and a beautiful soul. I hope that his family will stay tight in this moment of tragedy. I know that my son and i will always remember Robin...i am so glad our paths crossed, Robin was an angel way before leaving us. My heart is full of sadness and i hope he passed away peacefully. Not lots of words to express my sadness. Be strong, whatever this means. I will keep you in my prayers. miss Gunning
