“ It started off with breakfast every morning and chicken noodle soup after school EVERYDAY. I went from scrambled eggs, to grits, to soft boiled eggs. No matter what is was grandad was up to make it and to take me to school. Spring time was the best because I got to be the cool kid who got picked up on the motorcycle. I could hear him pull up from my desk in the classroom. He changed the motorcycle seat THREE TIMES just so I would be more comfortable on the back. He got me a cat, then a puppy, he worked and worked on my lice with kerosene. Man did everything for me and my dad. He would dance to blue grass music on Sunday morning and complain if I spent the night away from home. He loved few and remembered all. No matter what, even til now, he protected and protects me. I will share, but I am a firm believer that he is my white winged, cowboy boots wearing guardian angel. "This to shall pass" but never the memories and the love I share for William Lee Wood, my grandad.
